THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF MAINE.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

It has ever been the custom of our Christian Commonwealth, at the close of the harvest season, to call upon her people to render thanks and give thanks for His many mercies to His chosen children.

We continue to enjoy the priceless blessings of free government. The principle of civil and religious liberty, and respect for law, National, State, and local, still prevail throughout our favored land.

Providence has been kindly with our beloved State, her people, and her institutions, and there is abundant reason for offering thanks. Therefore, with the advice of the Executive Council, designate

Thursday, the Twenty-sixth Day of November, Instant,

AS A DAY OF

Thanksgiving and Praise.

Beginning on that day from all unnecessary labor and business, let us, in the employ of work, and at the family fireside, offer grateful tributes of praise and song for God's gracious favor.

And in the relations of families, kindred, and friends, may the love of home and the affection for our Commonwealth be strengthened, and may the solicitude of our inhabitants and gratitude expressed in deeds of charity and kindness.

Given at Augusta, the fourth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand, eight hundred and ninety-six, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and twenty-first.

HENRY C. CLEAVES,

Being Governor,

NICHOLAS FESSENDEN,

Secretary of State.

Some Pertinent Facts.

A certain class of Democratic newspaperers began to volunteer their advice to President McKinley the moment the verdict of the people was announced.

The burden of their cry is that there must be no tariff legislation because the Democrats do not believe in protection.

There are various replies to this assertion, one of which is that the incoming Administration is to be a Republican Administration, a fact seemingly overlooked by these supercilious writers; and one of chief principles of the Republican party is protection for American industry.

It was made a prominent feature of the St. Louis platform and has been enthusiastically endorsed by the people who demand a protective tariff well established Republican lines.

More than this business Democrats are just as anxious as Republicans for a tariff that will protect the interests of this country against disastrous competition. The fact is the Democratic party has not dealt honestly with the people. The campaign of 1892 was nothing more or less than a bare game of large proportions. The party then appealed to the prejudice of the people, but when it had secured a victory at the polls it admitted the fraud by a failure to live up to its declaration that all protection was unconstitutional, the result being the present tariff law, which is neither one thing or the other. It is a patchwork affair devoid of principle and a confessed failure both as regards revenue and the encouragement of business enterprise.

When the Democratic Congress entered upon the work of tariff revision the country was treated to a most instructive object lesson. Democrats rushed to Washington from every section of the country for the express purpose of protesting against the application of the Democratic tariff idea to industries in which they were interested. Maine was represented with other States, and in fact so general was the demand for the retention of the McKinley protection, that had the industries for which Democrats contended protection was essential to future success been exempted from the effects of the bill, very few important changes would have been made in the law of 1890, notwithstanding the fact that it had been so bitterly assailed by the same Democratic influence in the previous campaign.

This opposition to sweeping changes in the tariff was due to the well-grounded belief that while tariff reform was all right as a theory it was not practical when applied to actual business conditions. That belief has since become a matter of absolute knowledge by reason of the sad experience of the past three years. When the Democratic papers say that the people do not want a protective tariff based on sound principles, but to admit it is equivalent to abandoning the political field to the Republicans, more especially now that the Democrats are divided against themselves on financial questions.

The Government needs more revenue, and business enterprise needs protection against unjust and unnecessary foreign competition. The Republican party stands pledged to both and will undoubtedly enact legislation to that end at the earliest possible moment, after the inauguration of the change in the Administration in accordance with the vote of the people.

The Venezuelan Incident.

The Boston Advertiser says: Although Lord Salisbury's speech at the lord mayor's dinner in London last Monday evening was characterized by all the premier's customary filthiness of phrase and by more than all his usual adroitness in belitting what he is reluctant to reveal, he cannot yet be accused of any vagueness regarding the main point.

The marquis plainly told what he had to say he would very much rather not have had to say; plainly he realized keenly that it involved a situation humiliating to a degree; that he had been compelled to retreat from a position formerly so uncompromisingly assumed before the whole world several months ago; and so he tried very skilfully to soft-soak his fall by a kind of verbal pointing of the finger.

To do this he jocosely, when at length he came to the point, had to say: "We do not think it is right to interfere in another country's internal affairs."

He did not mean that he did not think it was right to interfere in another country's internal affairs.

NoticeDeath of an Old Maine Central Conductor.

Mr. Charles B. Annable, for many years conductor on the Maine Central and yard master at Brunswick on the time of his death, died at Brunswick Monday. Mr. Annable was born in Augusta, July 10, 1841, enlisted September 10, 1862, at Augusta and mustered in the U.S. service October 1st of the same year a corporal, Company E, 21st Regiment, Maine Infantry Volunteers for five months, and was with the regiment during its entire service, participating in the battle of Port Hudson which lasted 47 days and was present at the surrender of Port Hudson, July 17, 1863.

He was mustered out of service August, 1863, at Augusta by Lieut. F. B. Crossman of the 16th U. S. Infantry, having served two and one-half months more than the time for which he enlisted.

In the Court of Insolvency on Wednesday there was conducted before Judge Burgess an examination of witnesses in the case of Terrell & Lovenseller, insolvent, of Dexter. The object of the hearing was to ascertain the disposition of certain masters of property near the time of bankruptcy. There was also an examination of B. C. Addison, Esq., in the Kelley case.

William Delahanty and Eugene McCarthy, of Boston, who have been at work on the Eastern Maine Insane Hospital grounds, got into a fight last evening during which some glass was broken out of one of the windows of Tribou's boarding house where they were. The police were summoned and going to the scene of the patrol wagon took the two men to the police station and locked them up.

The Boston and Bangor Steamship Company has decided to put the steamer Rockland on the route between this city and Rockland for the winter season, running to this port until the river freezes and then coming to Bucksport and Winterport. She will probably begin running about the 23d instant and will furnish an excellent service for people along the river and bay after the larger boats are withdrawn for the season.

The steamer City of Bangor of the Boston & Bangor S. S. Co.'s fleet has been withdrawn from the route for the season, making her last trip from here Monday. The fine craft has been very popular with the travelling public this year, as last, and has given an excellent service. The Penobscot will remain on the route during the remainder of the season, making two trips per week, leaving here Mondays and Thursdays and leaving Boston Tuesdays and Fridays. She began this service Tuesday night, arriving here yesterday. She has a large passenger list out of Boston and brought many to this city, arriving here at noon.

College Presidents George C. Chase, of Bates, William Dewitt Hyde, of Bowdoin, Nathaniel Butler, of Colby, and Prof. H. H. Estabrook, of Maine State, met with the superintendents of schools yesterday at Augusta to consider the question of improving the condition of our rural schools. The question was thoroughly discussed and the following conclusions were reached: The grouping of the towns for supervision; a State board of examination; a system of summer training schools for teachers of at least four weeks were among the plans suggested. This is the first time in the educational history of the country that college presidents have met together for a purpose of this kind.

The valuable historical work by J. S. Rowe, Esq., published in 1890, entitled "First Service of Bangor, from Bucket to Hydrant," contained a list of the original members of the fire companies of the city at their organization, and is frequently alluded to on the occasion of the death of our older residents. By it appears that Mr. George W. Merrill, who was buried yesterday was, with Mrs. Jerry Fenn, the surviving member of old Engine Co. No. 3, running the old "Boston" engine. The company, of six members, was accepted by the city government April 24, 1854, over sixty-two years ago, and the death of Mr. Merrill leaves Mrs. Fenn as the last surviving member, and showing an annual death rate at the average of nearly one a year.

The Lewiston Journal reports the following conversation with Mr. John D. Clifford, regarding the water works: "You can say that the reports that we have sued the city of Bangor for the pay for our work on the cedar dams are unfounded," said John D. Clifford, of the firm of Barnes & Clifford, of Lewiston, to a reporter on Tuesday. "The water works is now in the Grand Central offices and is in good condition. Suitable for business, office, and residence. Apply to CLIFFORD, 125 Main Street, Lewiston."
